

The

MINI SPRINTS provide the logical answer to Mini motoring at its mostest!

First the engine adaptation. That's by Cooper. Then the aerodynamic body. That's by S & A. Result, a Mini with increased acceleration and top end performance without further power unit modifications.

You've got four choices. The S & A SPRINT and S & A SPRINT G.T. versions of both Morris Cooper and Morris Cooper 'S'. The SPRINTS are 3" lower than normal. The SPRINT G.T's are 4 $\frac{1}{4}$ " lower than normal. All four are cars with smooth, low rakish lines comparing with the best in Gran Turismo coachbuilding.

To drive them is an experience you cannot miss.
